QIPS Accounts to Automatically Convert over into New QIMS System

Phase III (set for January 2011), will include a new account management system that will provide identity credential to users who will need access to CROWNWeb. All users will need to follow an account management process defined in CMS' new QualityNet Identity Management System (QIMS). QIMS, which will be a replacement of the current QualityNet Identity Provisioning System (QIPS), will provide a more robust and secure account management service that will include end-user recertification, annual security training, and a confirmation system in which multiple identifiers are used to validate user credentials (multi-factor authentication). All users should continue to register for and/or maintain access to CROWNWeb via the QIPS system until further notice. Users with established QIPS accounts will have their accounts automatically converted over into QIMS. Further details regarding the transition from QIPS to QIMS will be discussed prior to the release of CROWNWeb Phase III and the full national implementation. Users can access training and communications materials on the Project CROWNWeb site.

CRAFT Call Focusing on Technical Efforts

Beginning in August, the CRAFT Call, which is held on the third Thursday of every month, will shift focus to discuss slightly more technical aspects of CROWNWeb, to help keep the community informed of the latest developments, enhancements, and requirements. During the call, CMS and CROWNWeb support contractors will discuss milestones and current projects. Communications and training updates will be shared with the community at the end of CMS' monthly Town Hall WebEx meetings. You can stay up-to-date with the latest project developments of CROWNWeb via the monthly CRAFT Call by joining the CRAFT distribution list. Submit your request to CRAFT@projectcrownweb.org.

Needs Related to Vascular Access Reporting

The Renal-RCT Team is currently gathering information to help define CROWNWeb's vascular access reporting needs, and would like input from the community during two upcoming teleconference meetings to be held on August 4 and August 11, 2010. The information gathered from these meetings will help with the creation of business requirements, which will guide the CROWNWeb programmers in developing the required functionality for facilities to run vascular access reports in CROWNWeb. If you are interested in being a part of this discussion, please send your name and email address to CRAFT@projectcrownweb.org.

Dr. Crown's FAQ of the Month

Dear Dr. Crown: I completed the QIPS account process, and received my CROWNWeb user ID months ago. Since the QIMS system will replace the current QIPS process, does that mean I will need to complete a new account activation form? - Once is Enough

Dear Once is Enough: No. Once QIMS goes live, you will simply need to log into QIMS using your existing QIPS account login information and update any new required security information. After QIMS goes live, new users will need to begin their account activation efforts by following an online registration process to generate a QIMS account form. Visit the Project CROWNWeb website for frequently updated information regarding QIPS and QIMS.
